

After

By Michael Dietrich

The world was never same after the drop. I've been told countless times about the beautiful blue world we once inhabited, and the weapons that poisoned
the water, the land, and even the air we breathe.
None of that matters now though. I have to keep going. I have to find Eden. I have to find her...